Course description (up to 600 words)	The best way to learn about the early education system is to have observations of the learning process in natural conditions, e.g., at a kindergarten. Therefore the course will include field visits in kindergartens and the students will observe and participate in the learning process. The objectives of the observations taking place in the subsequent days will be set after consultations with the students. Individual reflection on the observations will be a prerequisite of passing the course.
