Due to dynamic COVID-19 situation with many constantly changing restrictions that vary in different countries, we decided to move conference activities online.

We offer many diverse ways of participating. If you chose 1,3-5 we encourage you to also submit your paper in English for publication.

1. My research in a nutshell

Send us a 5-8 minutes video of your research or part of your research you would like to focus on e.g. methodology, theoretical framing, interpretation of data.... If you use your phone to record, please do so in horizontal position. We will classify your video in a thematic and place it on the conference channel.

It should be prepared in English.

2. Paper presentation

Please send us your paper. It should be sent as a .doc or .rtf file and include your full name, Affiliation, email address, ORCID number. Title, abstract of 150-250 words, and key words are important for our review process. A good alternative to a poster may be a selection of 10 photos, each photo should have a meaningful title and the selection should have a Main Title that reflects the theme of your photo presentation.

5. Live presentation

Between 14.00-17.00 Warsaw time there will be a number of live sessions, where you can present online a 15-minute presentation followed by questions and answers from the audience. Your internet connection will have to be tested before the conference. If your internet connection is unstable or not very strong you may opt for the video option instead as then you have full control over the transmission. Use the time zone convertor to check what time it is in your area and if this is a good option for you.
